

Show Me The Money: Searching For and Finding RFPs (Government Contracting Opportunities): A Research Based Approach

Please join us for our February 2017 SEA Webinar

Wednesday, February 15th, 11:30am -12:30pm

Description: Searching for and finding request for proposals (RFPs) from government agencies can be a frustrating and time-consuming process. This webinar is designed to equip you with the tips, techniques and tools to enable you to search for and locate federal, state, tribal and local government contracting opportunities in a timely fashion. Topics covered include: search engine tips and techniques to uncover RFP opportunities, shortcut for searching FedBizOpps, pros and cons of commercial RFP finding services, tracking and monitoring multiple RFP websites using free or low cost tools.

Speaker: Matthew Von Hendy MA/MLS has more than 20+ years as a professional research librarian and has worked at EPA, NASA and the National Academies of Science. In 2012, he established his own research and information consulting firm, Green Heron Information Services, and has been working closely with evaluation and other research professionals ever since. He has presented at many local, regional and national evaluation conferences.
